

SPECTRUM
PROJECT
University of Northern Iowa

A WIMBA WAY

APRIL 3, 2:00 PM AT BENGTON AUDITORIUM

THE UNI SPECTRUM PROJECT IS A MUSIC, DRAMA, MOVEMENT AND ART PROJECT FOR CHILDREN WITH DIFFERENT ABILITIES.

FREE ADMISSION
DONATIONS ACCEPTED

This book belongs to _____.

A WIMBA WAY

Illustrated by Elizabeth Kosmicki

Inspired by The First Music written by Dylan Pritchett

Adapted for the 2016 UNI Spectrum
Project by the UNI Spectrum Project

SCENE 1

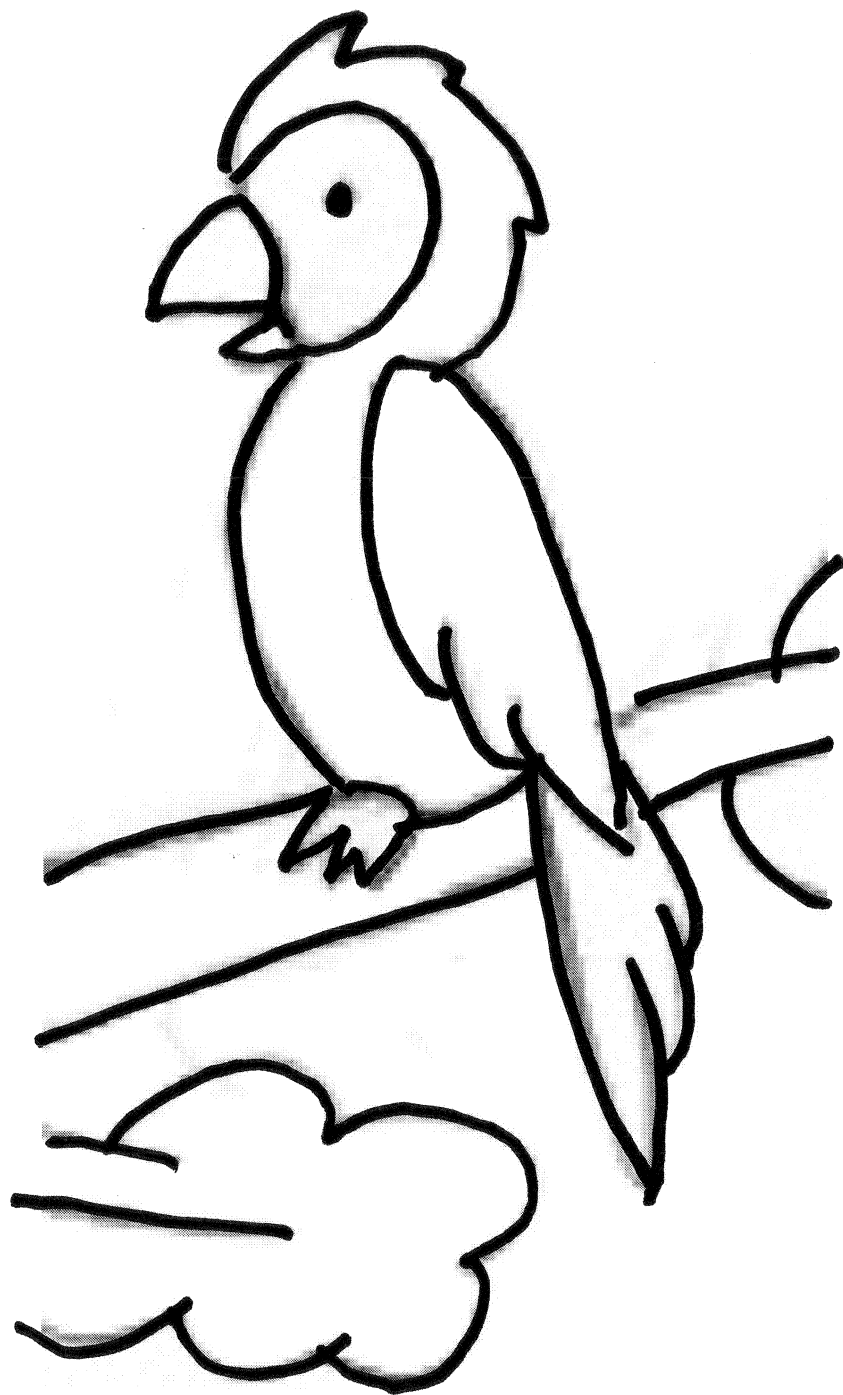

In the beginning, the African forest had many sounds.

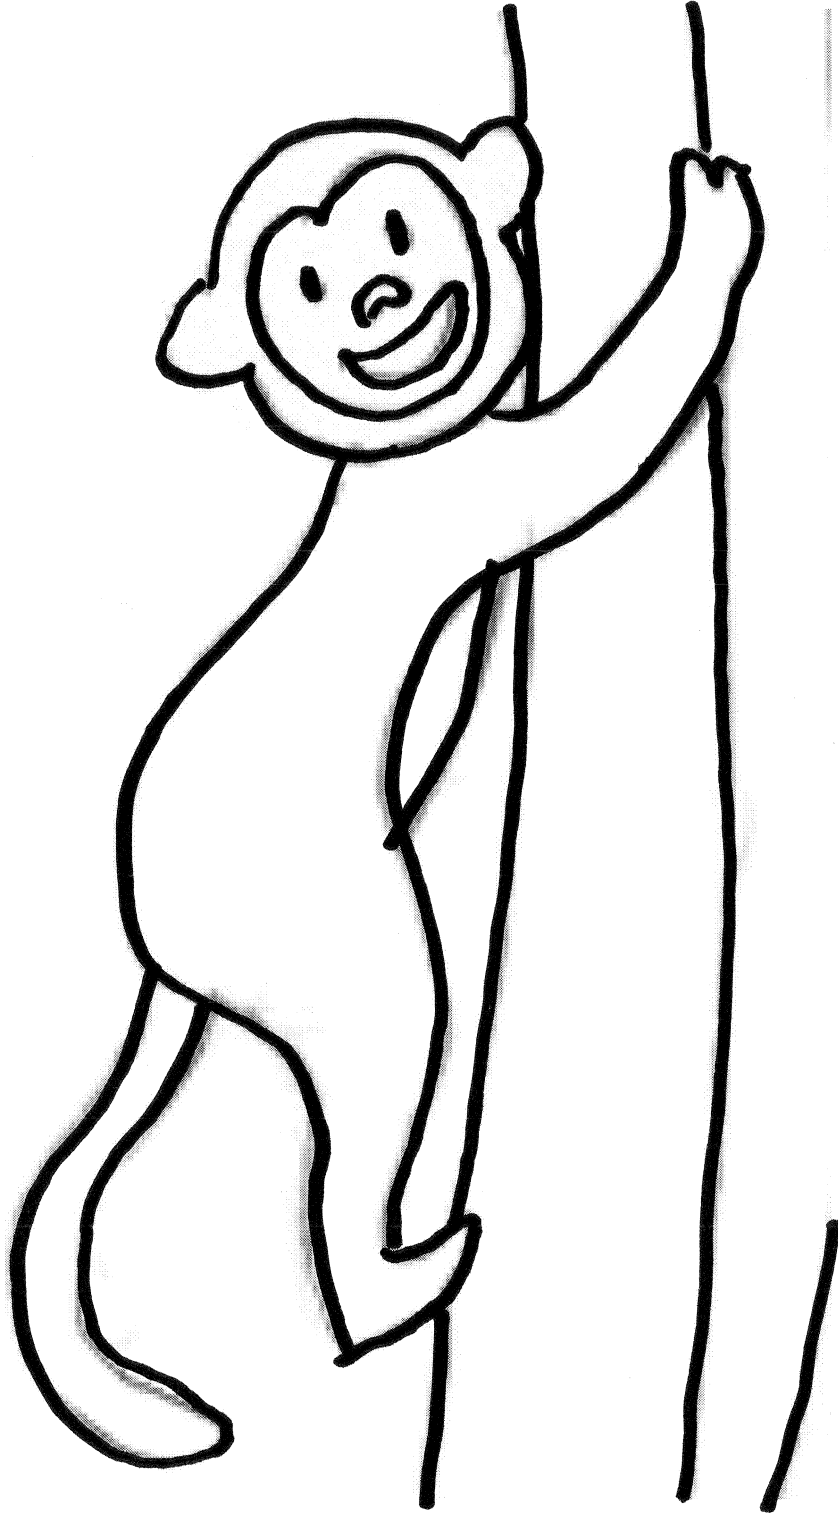

The owl hooted.

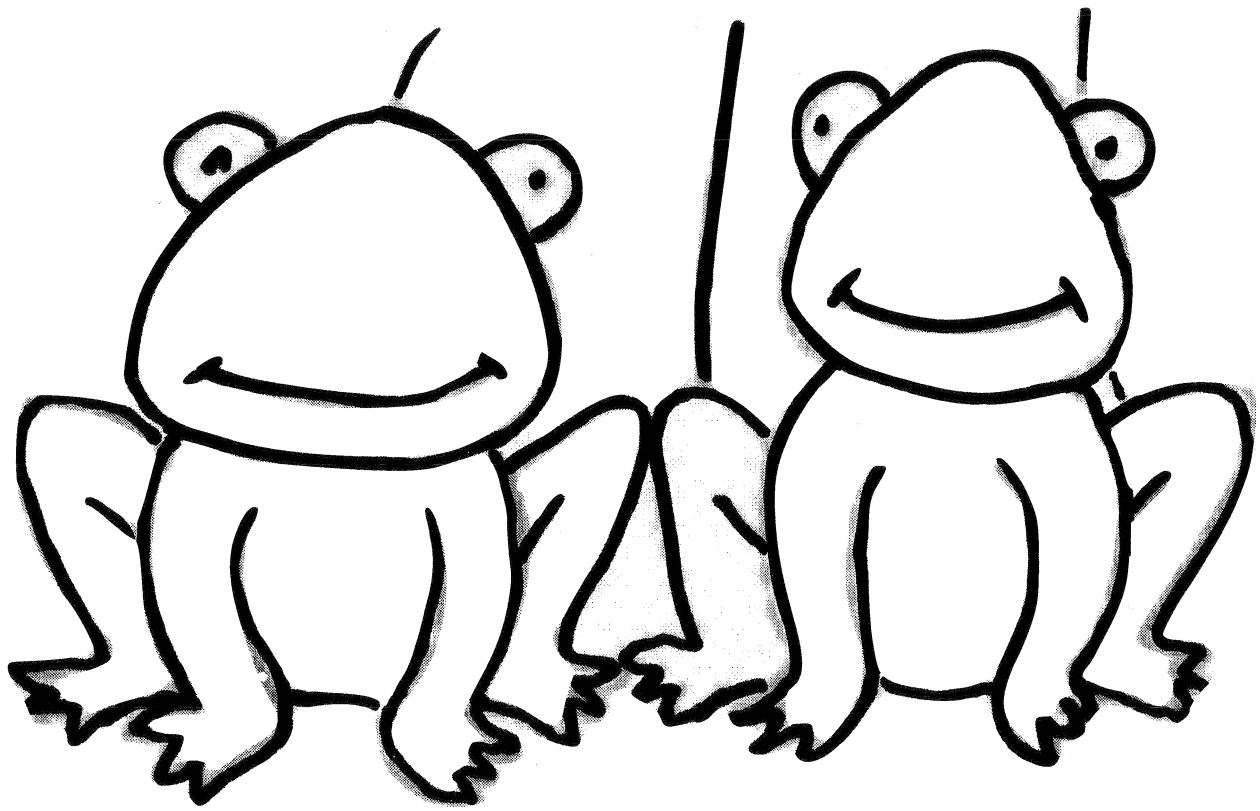

The lion roared.

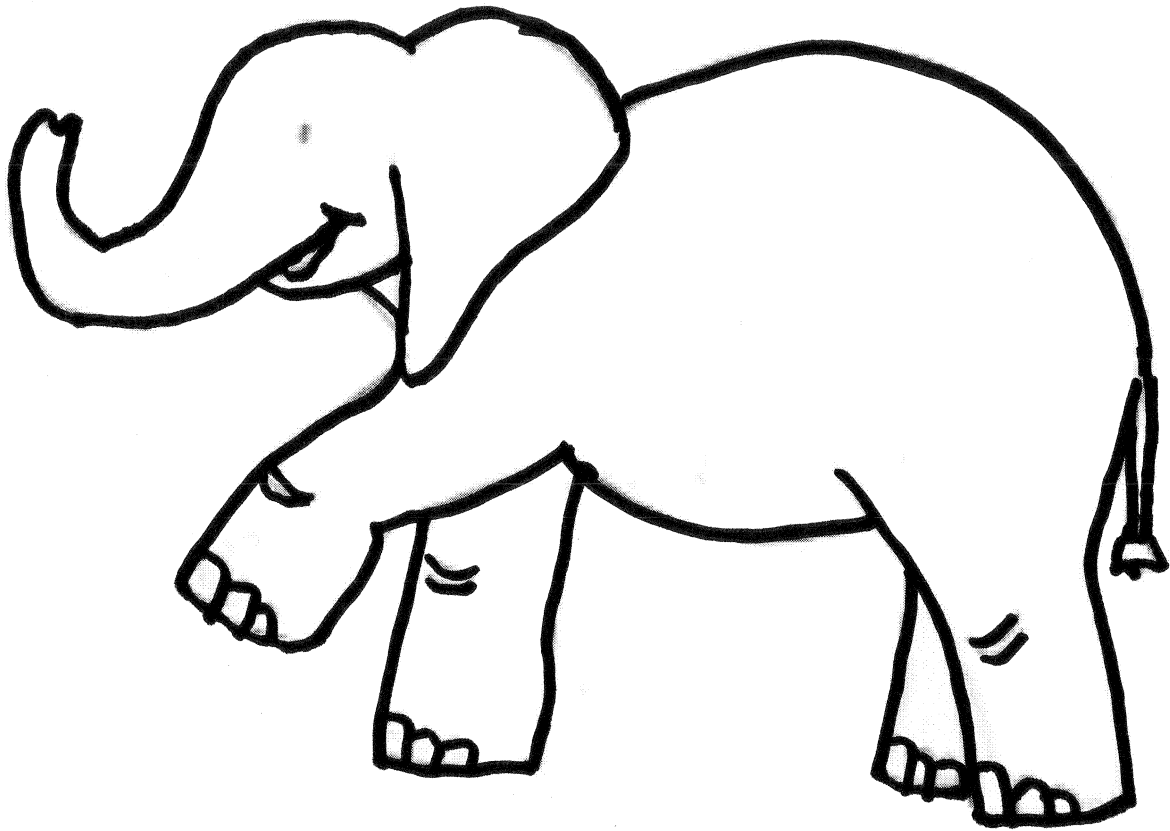

The parrot screeched.

and the monkey chittered.

But the frogs were silent.

Suddenly, a noise like thunder
Rumbled through the Jungle.

"Who made that loud sound?" asked the Monkey

"We did!" said the Elephants.

"We like your sound!" everyone said.

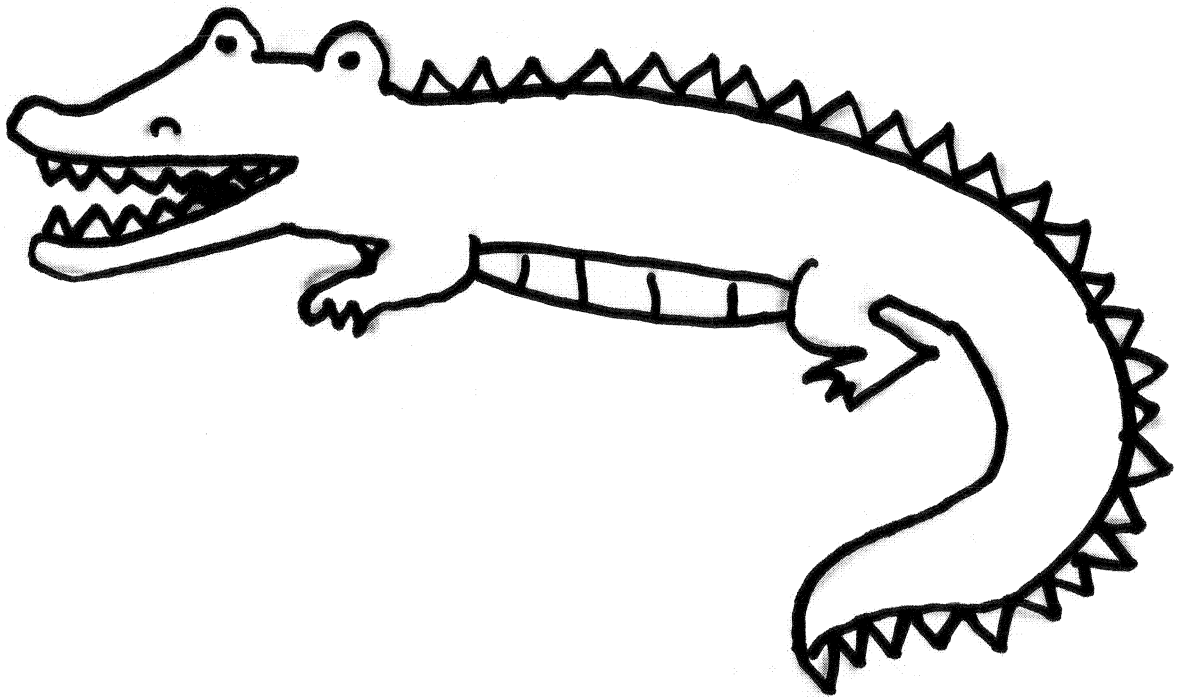

Monkey said, "I feel like dancing!"
So the Elephants kept Rumbling through the Jungle.

It was MUSIC, and it made the Parrots want to dance.

But the frogs were silent.

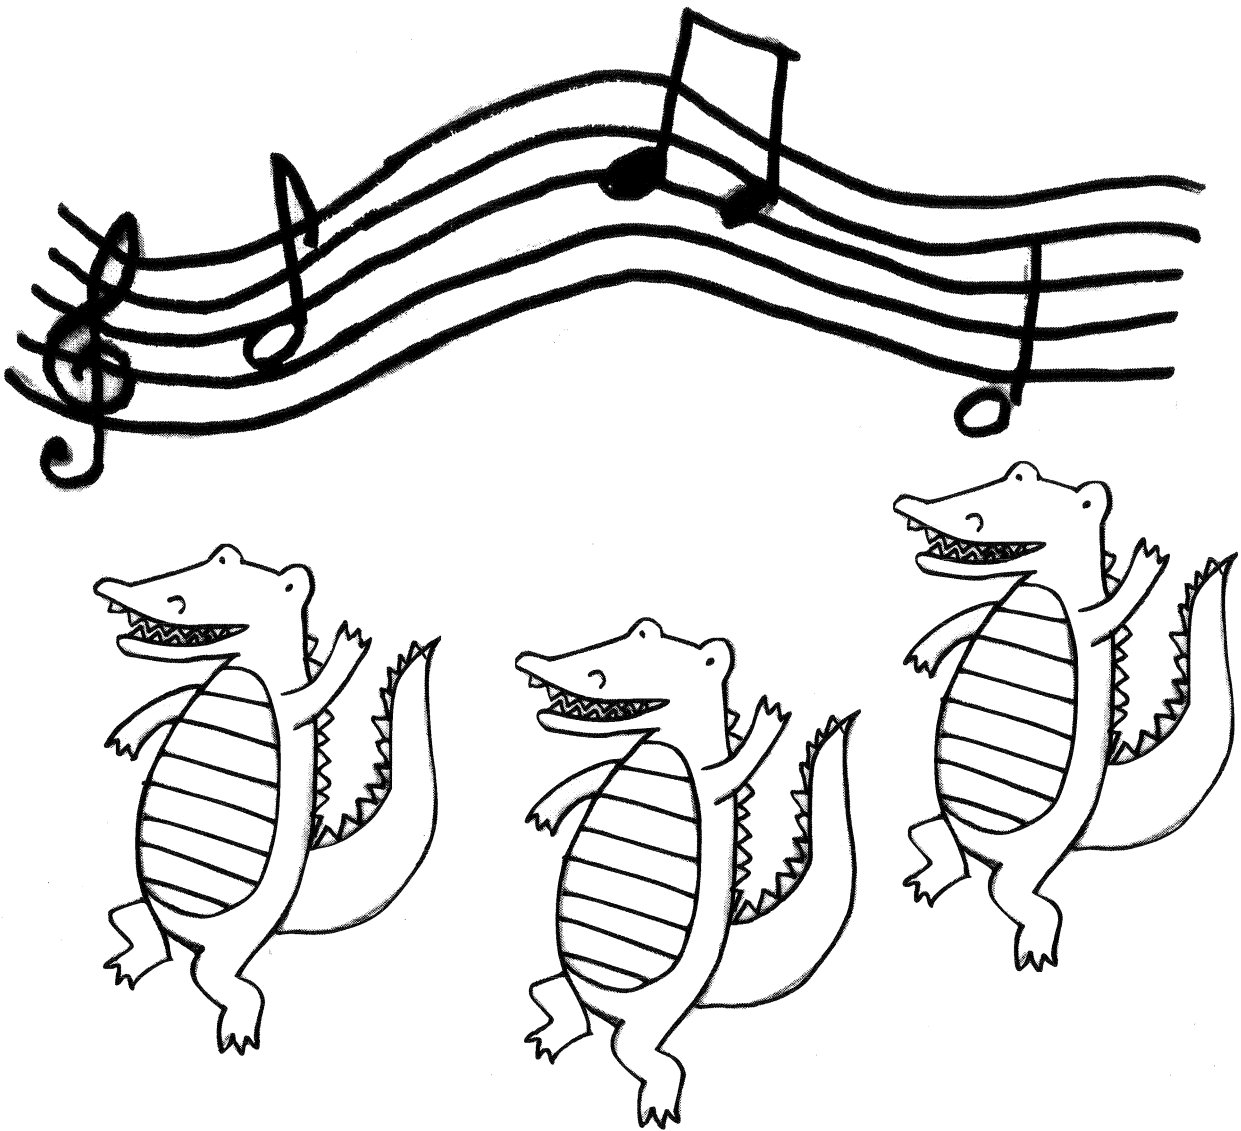

SCENE 2

Crocodile heard music.
Crocodile watched.

Crocodile danced. It was MUSIC!

The crocodiles heard the music the elephants were making and wanted to make their own music.

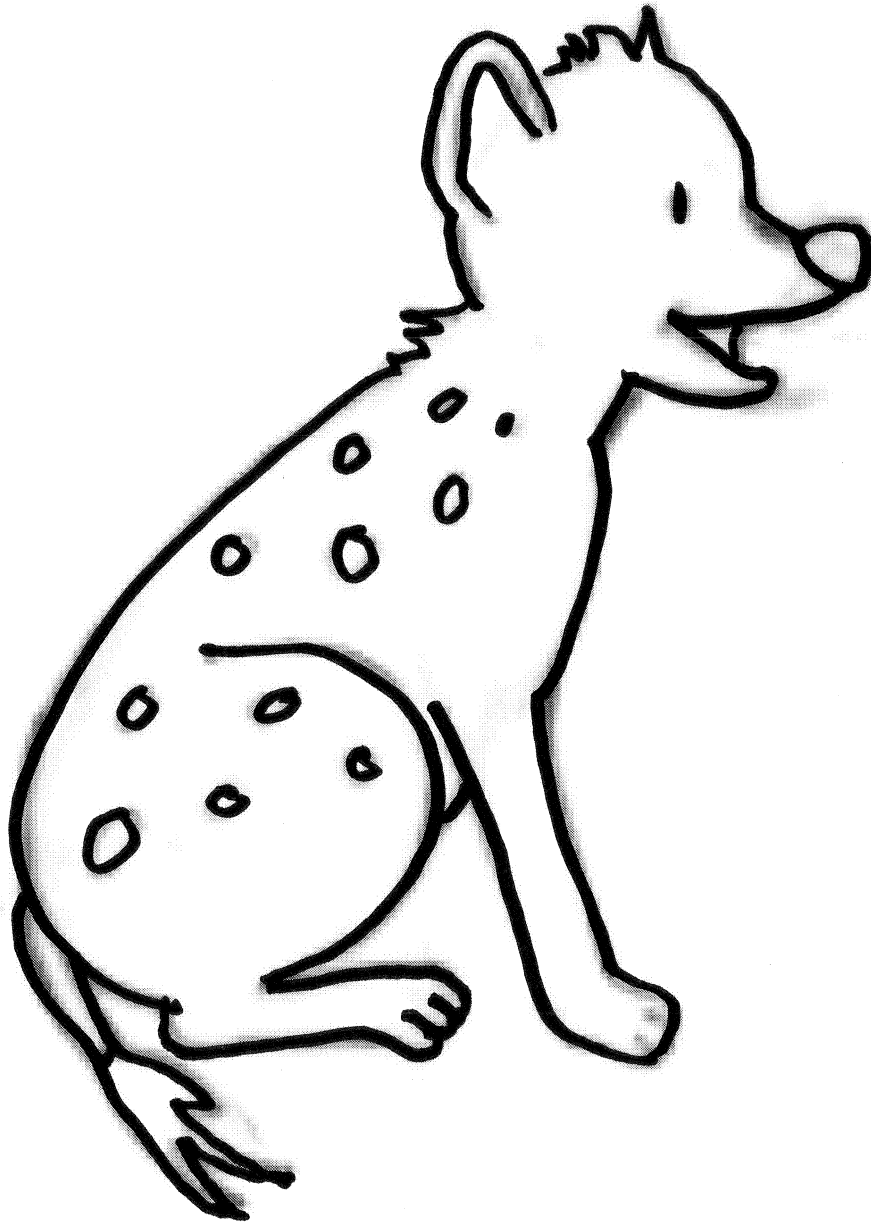

The lions heard the music the crocodiles were making and they started to dance.

But the frogs were silent.

SCENE 3

The hyenas heard the music too!

They laughed!

"Do you hear that?" asked one hyena.

"We could do that!" said another hyena.

"Yes! Let's!" said a third hyena.

So the hyenas danced too!

It was MUSIC!

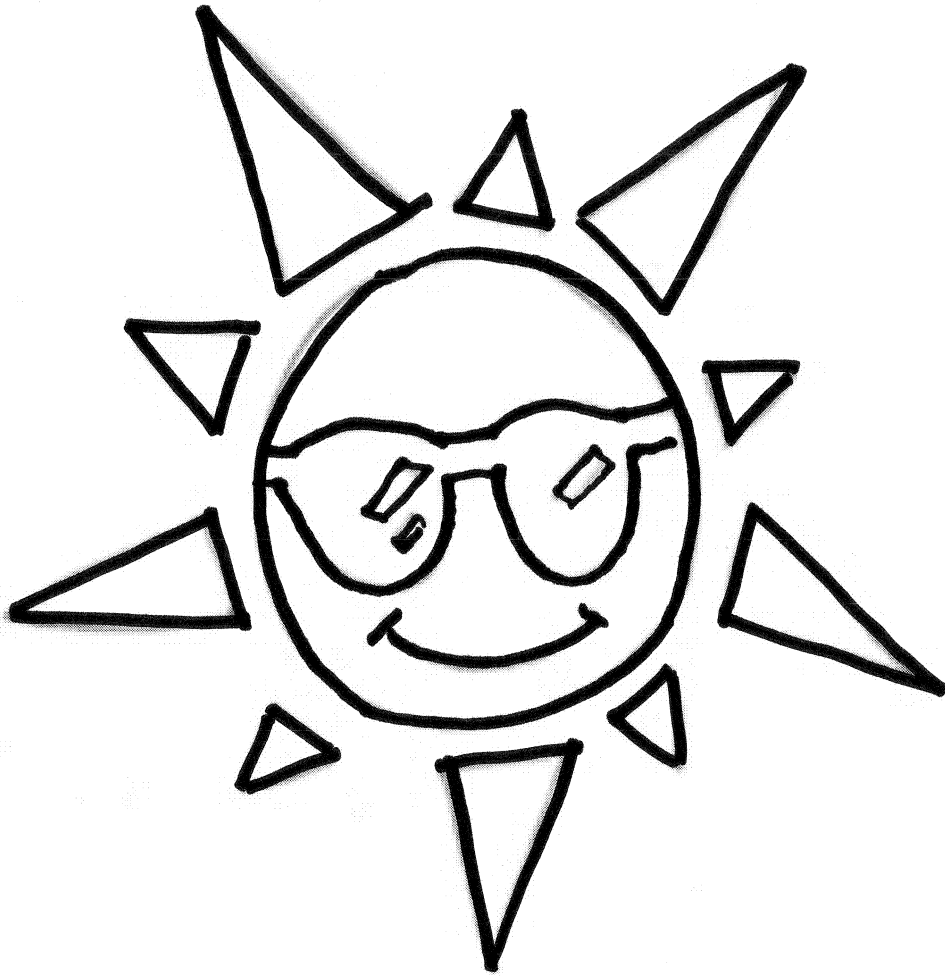

It started to get windy.

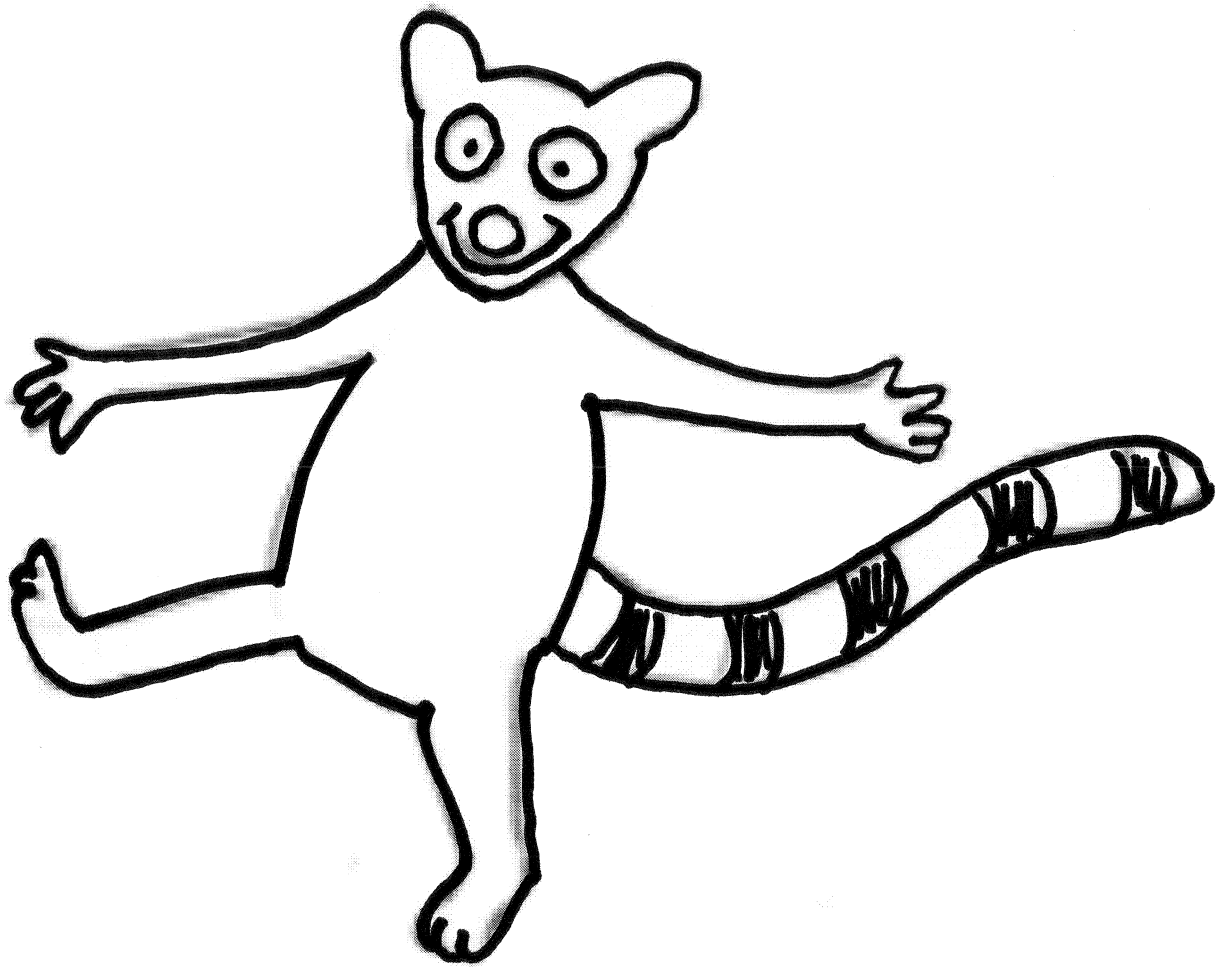

The animals felt small drops of rain falling on them.

The raindrops got bigger and bigger, turning into a large thunderstorm.

The rain went away and the sun came out.

When the lemurs heard the elephant's and crocodile's music, they just had to Shake It Off.

But the frogs were silent.

SCENE 4

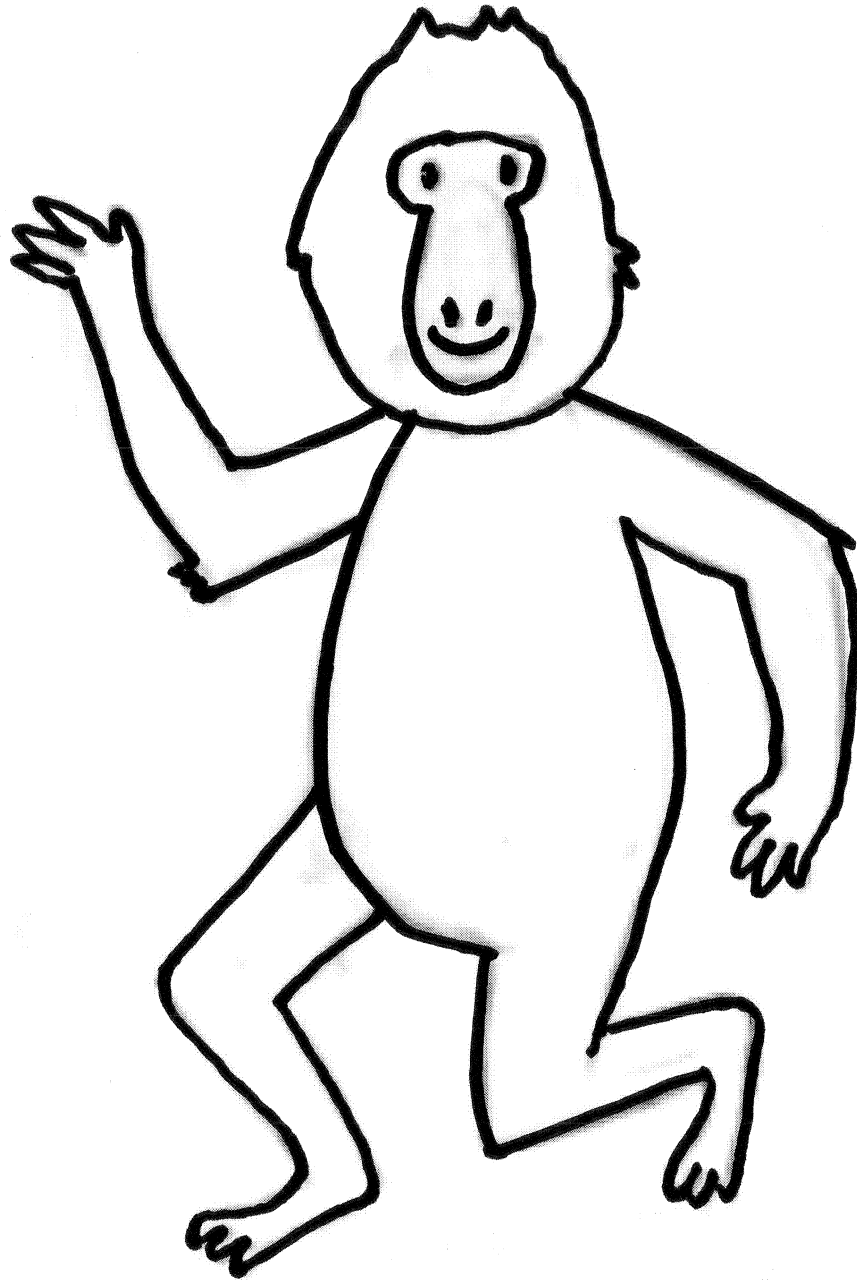

Rhino heard music.

One rhino said, "That sounds fun!"
Another rhino said, "We have music too!"

It was MUSIC!

A BIG group of forest animals heard the music the crocodiles and elephants were making.
They wanted to make their own music!

The baboons heard the music the forest animals were making and they started to Move It, Move It.

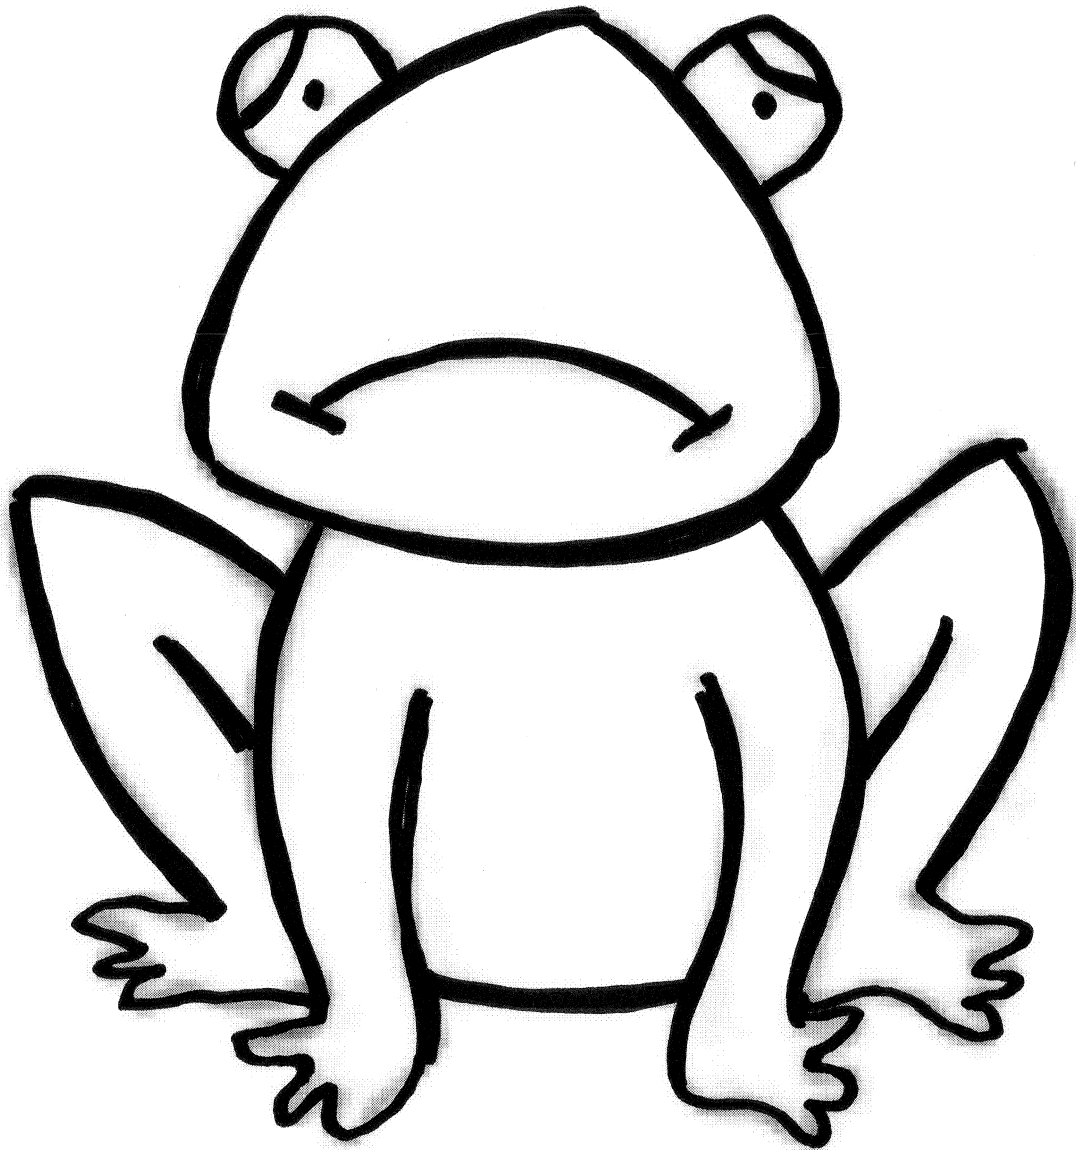

But the frogs were silent.

SCENE 5

The African forest was filled with music and dancing animals.

The forest animals went to the frogs and asked, "Will you play and dance too?"

"We have short legs and cannot dance," said one frog.

"We have short hands and cannot play,"
said a second frog.

"We can just listen," said a third frog.

After so much music and dancing, it was time for bed.

"Do you hear that?!" said the crocodile.

"It's the frogs!" said the rhino.

"The frogs can sing!" roared the lion. It was MUSIC!

"We sound better together," said the hyena.

The frogs were never silent again.

The End.

