The UNI Spectrum Project combines music, movement and drama for children with different abilities.

About the Spectrum Project...

The Spectrum Project is a Saturday program that combines music, movement and drama for children with different abilities. Performers come from the Cedar Valley and range in age from 6 to 17. The project meets each Saturday beginning in January. This performance is a selection of various activities experienced during this year's sessions. The activities use ideas and creations from the performers, along with direction from the UNI students.

Buddies are UNI students and graduates who volunteer each week to work with the performers. Each performer is paired with a Spectrum Buddy for the duration of the project.

Spectrum Theatre was founded by UNI Theatre Professor Gretta Berghammer in 2012. The Spectrum Project, a continuation of efforts to provide performing arts experience for children, is modeled after the Ball State Prism Project, founded by Ryan and Amy Hourigan at Ball State University in Muncie, Indiana.

The Spectrum Project was made possible through a Capacity Building Grant from the University of Northern Iowa.

Get Involved

Are you passionate about helping others with special needs? Are you passionate about helping others to have a wonderful experience in the arts? Are you interested in becoming a UNI Spectrum Buddy for the 2016 Spectrum Project spring season?

Here's your chance! The 2016 Spectrum Project programs need dedicated, passionate, enthusiastic and excited future professionals to make next year's Spectrum Project better than ever!

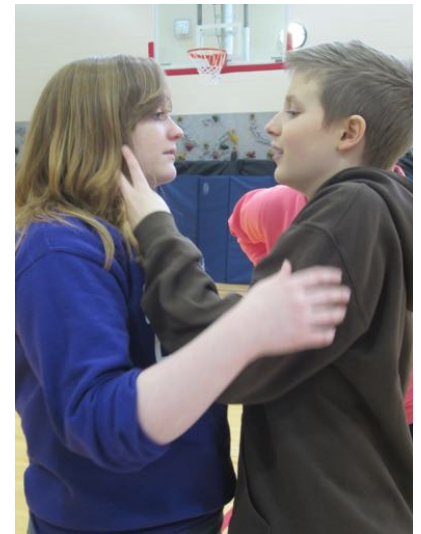

Most of the Spectrum Project Buddies involved with this year's program began with little or no experience teaching children with special needs. Spectrum Buddies can be any majors. This year our buddies are majoring in social work, psychology, art education, communication sciences & disorders, elementary education, music education, and public relations to name just a few.

As buddies, UNI students learn to apply motivational and instructional struggles, which improve their ability and willingness to teach, work, and empathize with children with special needs.

For more information about getting involved in the UNI Spectrum Project, go to spectrumproject.org or email Kevin Droe at kevin.droe@uni.edu
